

Inspire the Next Generation!

Volunteer to teach girls about carpentry, electricity, plumbing and fitting.

Oregon Tradeswomen's Trades Offer Girls Options (TO GO) program educates middle and high school girls about careers in the trades through hands-on workshops. TO GO activities inspire girls to explore trades careers; as one Poynter middle school student wrote, "I learned that girls can do what I thought only guys could do!"

We need your expertise and help. ☆

Girls love to see practical math and science lessons, meet tradeswomen rolemodels, and learn about nontraditional careers for women.

Help teach hour-long workshops to girls in middle and high school by demonstrating how to wire light switches, build picture frames, solder copper pipes and more.

Volunteering takes as little time as 2-4 hours and has a huge impact on girls' vision of their futures.

TO GO reaches over 1,500 girls annually!

Volunteer in a classroom for a few hours at an up-coming workshop or work behind the scenes, preparing materials.
